

April 09, 2024

Tatler

“Singaporean artist Ho Tzu Nyen named as one of ten winners of the Chanel Next Prize 2024”

Link: <https://www.tatlerasia.com/lifestyle/arts/singaporean-artist-ho-tzu-nyen-chanel-next-prize-2024>

Tatler

CITY GUIDES

POWER & PURPOSE

GEN.T

STYLE

DINING

HOMES

LIFESTYLE

MORE

LIFESTYLE | ARTS

Singaporean artist Ho Tzu Nyen named as one of ten winners of the Chanel Next Prize 2024

By Sabrina Low | Apr 09, 2024

COVER Ho Tzu Nyen is one of ten winners of this year's Chanel Next Prize awards

The local multi-disciplinary artist will receive €100,000 in funding from the House's prestigious arts and culture prize

Chanel's biennial culture fund "Next Prize" is a global initiative to accelerate the ideas that advance culture, extending the House's century-long legacy of cultural patronage. Every two years, the prestigious prize honours ten international contemporary artists who are trailblazers in their respective disciplines.

This year's honourees originate from six countries and span a variety of artistic mediums. "Each is a catalyst and a pioneer. Each is disrupting established practice across a multitude of cultural fields, from art and opera to cinema and game design. Watching their creative journeys will be thrilling," says Yana Peel, global head of arts and culture at Chanel.

And among them is renowned Singaporean multi-disciplinary artist Ho Tzu Nyen.

Don't miss: Navigating multitudes: An interview with local multi-disciplinary artist Ho Tzu Nyen

ABOVE Ho Tzu Nyen

Ho's deeply introspective practice encompasses animation, performance, and installation, and is often concerned with the ever-changing identity of the Southeast Asian region. He represented Singapore at the 54th edition of the Venice Biennale, and has held solo exhibitions at iconic institutions such as the Guggenheim Museum in Spain and the Mori Art Museum in Tokyo.

Most recently, Singapore Art Museum marked two decades of Ho's illustrious artistic journey through a mid-career survey exhibition titled Ho Tzu Nyen: Time & the Tiger. The show will tour to the Art Sonje Center in Seoul, and the Hessel Museum of Art in New York before travelling to the Mudam Contemporary Art Museum of Luxembourg next year.

singaporeartmuseum
62.8K 位粉丝

查看个人主页

在 Instagram 查看更多内容

185 次赞

发表评论...

On top of receiving €100,000 (SGD$146,240) in funding from Chanel to realise any ambitious art project of his choosing, Ho is granted entry to a two-year mentorship and networking programme. The scheme is supported by cultural partners of the luxury fashion label across the world, including the Royal College of Arts in London.

NOW READ

Delve into a Parisian love story with 'Le Bal de Paris de Blanca Li'

How Chanel uses science and research to explore the relationship between skin health and well-being

The Tatler guide to collecting and curating art, with exclusive tips from esteemed gallerists and collectors

Credits

Images Chanel and Singapore Art Museum

Topics

Ho Tzu Nyen

Chanel

Chanel Next Prize 2024

Singaporean artists